The Shure range of SRH headphones have been developed for recording studios and DJ mixers and have been long accepted as a reference in studios and with DJs. The headphones are also widely accepted by music fans on account of their excellent sound quality.

The bayonet locking mechanism is moulded so that the contact between cable and headphone is coordinated with a smooth precision. PBT engineering plastic is used so that its hardness and accuracy reduces wear even with repeated removal.

Available in 1.3 and 2.5m lengths and with two different connectors.
